RICE DEALERS IN PROTEST TO LICENSING LAW

Ask Commissioner To Urge
New Municipal Regulation
Be Rescinded

MEETING HELD AT GUILD

Representatives Of Shops Declare Measure Will Ruin Them

Rice dealers in the International Settlement are developing a strong opposition to the Municipal order for the licensing of local rice shops and have filed a letter with the Chinese Chamber of Commerce asking that the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs be urged to take the matter up with the Consular Body in an effort to have the regulation rescinded.

The licensing order is scheduled to go into effect July 1 and was formulated by the Council with the idea of checking profiteering in the staple. The license regulations would enable the Municipal authorities to control the storing of grain. The dealers, however, declare that if the order goes into effect it will only result in the ruin of their business and will not appreciably relieve the cost situation, as outside dealers would be in no way bound by it.

The Woosung and Shanghai Rice Maintenance Association held a meeting on Sunday at the Shanghai Rice Threshing guild some forty representatives of local rice shops attending. The opinion was expressed that the dealers would be justified in ignoring the licensing order and it was decided to request the Foreign Commissioner, as well as the five Chinese advisors to the Council, to work for its cancellation.

It was proposed, in the event that no satisfactory agreement is reached, that the Association and the Rice Dealers' guild hold a joint meeting to further consider the matter.

The stipulations in the licensing regulations to which the dealers take greatest exception are those allowing police and health officials free access to all departments of their business and permitting the authorities to limit the quantity of rice which may be held in store. With regard to the first of these they maintain that by giving the officials access to all their premises confusion would result in the internal workings of their businesses and misunderstanding would arise with the trade.

If the storage of rice is limited, they declare, it will work a hardship in that there are times when few junks arrive from the interior, when their stores would run short. This limitation, they say, and control of prices, would also give the dealers an opportunity to regulate their prices in accordance with their own liking, with the result that local shops would be so squeezed that they must go out of business or face financial loss.

It is expected that there will be a sharp advance in rice prices immediately following the Dragon Boat Festival—next Friday and Saturday.

Peking, June 3.—A Changsha telegram reports that the Poyang Lake overflowed on Tuesday and the flood waters reached the West Gate of Changsha which had to be closed to keep the water out of the city. As this flood is expected to damage the rice fields the price of rice has risen in North China.

U.S. House Favors Disarmament Meet

(Reuter's Service)
Washington, June 5.—The Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives has approved a resolution drawn up by the Chairman, Mr. Porter, after conferring with President Harding, declaring that Congress fully concurs with the President's intention of calling an international conference on the limitation of armaments, and appropriating $100,000 for preliminary expenses.

SCORES DEAD IN COLORADO FLOOD; LOSS $10,000,000

Six Foot Wall Of Water
Sweeps Over Business
Section Of Pueblo

(Reuter's Service)
Denver, June 4.—One hundred and thirty-two bodies have been recovered from the ruins caused by the cloudburst at Pueblo, while it is estimated that 10,000,000 dollars worth of damage has been done. A six-foot wave destroyed practically the whole business section of the town, including the Armour Packing Plant building. Fires broke out and were extinguished with difficulty.

Denver, June 4.—The flood here was due to the overflowing of the Arkansas and Fountain Rivers. It struck Pueblo at 1:45 p.m. this morning. Hundreds of families have lost everything in a mad rush to escape. Warning signals were displayed at six o'clock last evening but were apparently unheeded. The loss of life is very great in the suburbs, which are inhabited mainly by steelworkers.

A trainload of tents, food and fresh water has been sent from Denver to Pueblo, where a regiment of State Rangers has taken control to effect rescues and to prevent looting.

Denver, June 4.—Cloudbursts and floods have created havoc among the crops and livestock in East Colorado, especially around Pueblo. Hundreds of people have been forced to flee from their homes in boats.

Managers Blamed For Huge Waste In American Industry

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)
Washington, June 4.—Mr. Hoover's American Engineering Councils Committee for the elimination of waste in industry has reported that more than half of the waste in industrial processes is chargeable to the management and less than a quarter to labor. The Committee urged nationwide co-operation between the Government and the public, in association with industries, labor, bankers and engineers, to combat waste.

SINHALESE KILLS TWO CHINESE IN HONGKEW SHOP

Shoots Clerks After Refusal To Change Bottle Of Scent

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Hearing Begun In British Police Court And Adjourned

Because of refusal to exchange a cheap bottle of perfume which he had bought and opened, a Sinhalese named K. Peters, shot and killed two Chinese shop assistants at 284-5 North Szechuen Road Sunday afternoon.

The man was captured immediately after the shooting and was brought into the British Police Court and charged with murder yesterday, a proceedings which he accepted with complete equanimity, replying calmly to Magistrate King from the dock that he quite realized the seriousness of the affair and that he had taken no steps to engage counsel for his defense.

Testimony taken at the inquest, held before Assessor Hutchison and Magistrate Li of the Mixed Court yesterday morning, and at the police court hearing revealed that the Sinhalese first called at the shop on Friday, when he bought a bottle of scent, paying $1 for it. The next day he returned and asked a shop assistant, one Cha Hok-lee, to exchange the bottle as he did not like the smell of it. Seeing that the bottle had been opened the assistant refused to make the change, whereupon the purchaser had words with him and later left the shop without the bottle.

The man came into the shop again at about 12:30 p.m. Sunday, went to the same assistant and again asked that the bottle be exchanged. The assistant brought forth the opened bottle and the purchaser asked angrily if he were not going to exchange it. When the clerk replied in the negative Peters pulled a five-chambered 32-caliber revolver from his jacket pocket and fired point blank across the counter, the bullet striking Cha at the base of the throat. The Sinhalese whipped about and fired at another assistant Yang Kyung-chuen, who fell to the floor with a bullet wound over the left eye.

Firing another shot at still another assistant Peters fled from the shop and got into a ricksha. Following the blowing of police whistles the murderer, still with the revolver in his hand, was captured and disarmed by Sikh constables near the corner of Range Road. Police Sergeant Pilleboom, who was in plain clothes and off duty at the time, was passing and assisted in taking the man, after sending the wounded to St. Luke's Hospital, where both died a few hours later.

The court hearing was remanded until Wednesday after evidence of arrest had been given. The verdict returned at the inquest was that the man had died as a result of revolver wounds inflicted by Peters and the witnesses at the inquest were ordered to attend the British court when the case comes on.

Peters is a native of Colombo and was previously employed as a watchman at the Fire Brigade's Yangtzeop station, but was discharged last January. He stated that he has been unemployed recently and could give no address.

Sweeping Revision Of Tax Laws Asked By U.S. Congressman

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)
Washington, June 4.—Mr. Fuller, of Illinois, has introduced four amendments to the Revenue Law, said to be sponsored by the Committee of Manufacturers and Merchants on Federal Taxation and the Farmers' Federal Tax League. The amendments propose (1) the repeal of the taxes on transportation and sales, except upon tobacco, spirits, oleomargarine, habit-forming drugs and the products of child labor; (2) the repeal of the Excess Profits Tax and of the ten percent tax on the incomes of corporations; (3) to distinguish between earned and unearned incomes, with a reduction of the tax on earned incomes and the provision of a graded tax on inheritances, ranging as high as 90 percent on estates over $100,000,000, and (4) a tax of one percent on land values in excess of $10,000, exclusive of improvements.

TOBACCO MONOPOLY

New York, June 3.—According to a despatch from Madrid, the Spanish Chamber has adopted the Government's proposal to continue the tobacco monopoly, by 233 votes to one.

NEW LABOR WAR LOOMS IN ENGLAND OVER WAGES

Engineering Trade Is Aroused By Proposed Cuts

NOTICES TUESDAY

Reductions To Average
15 Percent—Painters
To Get Less

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 5.—The country is unexpectedly faced with the threat of another grave labor crisis over the troublesome question of the reduction of wages. The Engineering and National Employers' Federations have given notice of their intention to issue wage reduction notices on Tuesday next, the reductions to comprise a cut of six shillings in the wages of time workers and fifteen percent in those of piece workers and in Ministry of Munitions bonuses.

This step is the outcome of the failure of negotiations extending over the past two months. The employers state that the unions have taken up a non possumus attitude. The employers proposed making the reduction in two instalments. A delegate conference of the employees stated before the announcement of the decision that they were endeavoring to obtain modified proposals and a compromise settlement.

A three-shilling reduction, in two instalments, is to be made in the wages of employees in the paint trade, according to an announcement made today.

San Francisco, June 3.—By an order which is to take effect on July 1 the wages of all the California-Hawaiian Sugar Refining Company's employees are to be reduced by approximately twenty percent.

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Buenos Aires, June 1.—The Maritime Federation has voted a general strike to be effective immediately, which will tie up all maritime traffic under the Argentine flag. The Labor situation is growing more critical hourly. More than 30,000 men are out. The Police broke up a joint meeting of Communists and the Labor Federation and arrested 180 persons.

Denby And Harding Speak At Annapolis

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)
Annapolis, June 5.—Presenting diplomas to midshipmen today, the Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Edwin Denby, urged that the professional attributes of an officer should be combined with respect for enlisted men.

"When the red day comes, if come it must," Mr. Denby proceeded, "when in the flame of battle, your souls are taken under the flag, you will die as gentlemen should. I do not anticipate, if you live as officers and if the Navy keeps up to its standards both in material and men, that you will be called on to offer a great sacrifice."

President Harding expressed the hope that the nation would never be called upon to fire a gun in war again, adding the promise that while he was President, the graduates of the Annapolis Naval College would never have to go to war except for a cause acceptable to the American conscience.

Italian Soldiers Honored At Bligny

(Reuter's Service)
Paris, May 30 (delayed).—An impressive ceremony took place today at Bligny, in the Champagne, in honor of the 3,000 Italian soldiers who fell there in 1917 in defence of the liberty of Europe.

Marshals Foch and Petain, the Italian Ambassador, General Albrici and delegations from several French and Italian regiments were present.

Mystery Surrounds Disappearance Of Wealthy Widow

Mrs.
Annette
Rankine

ONE of the greatest mysteries that the New York Police Department has been confronted with in years is the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Annette K. Rankine, wealthy and socially prominent, widow of William K. Rankine. Several days ago Mrs. Rankine visited the poorer section of the East Side, where she was deeply interested in charitable work. On arriving at her destination Mrs. Rankine dismissed her chauffeur. She has not been seen or heard from since that time. Whether Mrs. Rankine has been kidnapped, committed suicide or is a victim of some other tragedy is impossible to say.

Apartment Hunting Here Is As Exciting And Profitable As Chasing Purple Zebras

In The First Place There Ain't No Such Animal
And In The Second, Even If There Is,
It Ain't Worth It

BY ELSIE McCORMICK

HAVE you ever gone apartment hunting in Shanghai? If so, you know as much about mirages as any Arizona dweller who ever leaned forgetfully against a cactus-plant and you've gotten into about as many unexpected places as a man making his first visit to a department store. Hunting a comfortable apartment also resembles phoenix hunting in that there is no such animal.

The apartment idea usually germinates when a brace of bachelors, a covey of spinsters, or a married couple look at each other across the boarding-house table and remark that it's a long worm that has no turning. Weary of soup-splashed menu cards, tarnished cutlery, and tepid puddings that has to be attacked with two implements because it is too weak and dispirited to be dispatched with one, they decide that the way out is to take a little apartment and do their own housekeeping.

If they are spinsters, they immediately begin a mental furnishing process, eventually creating a series of rooms that are close relations to the interior views in "Town and Country" and the bedroom sets displayed in the window of Wanmaker's, New York. They visualize the hot and cold running telephones, the collapsible servants, and other modern improvements with which their homes will be garnished, not forgetting the central heating-plant that will be put in the center of the floor every fall. Though they decide at first that they will not consider anything not recently done up in pale buff, they finally resolve to accept any of the pastel shades.

As a census of their possessions includes two brass cypreses, a pair of candlesticks which somebody bought to send home for Christmas but didn't because she couldn't find anything to pack them in, a Mandarin petticoat that would make a wonderful lampshade in case they had a lamp, a wood-carving of a ricksha man from Ningpo, and a few towels acquired on the Shanghai-Nanking Railroad, they feel fairly well provided for in the matter of furniture.

After revelling somewhat further in the thought of the cozy little teas they will give with a done-over baby-carriage for a tea-wagon they set forth cheerfully to find the apartment. No little girl believing that her new tooth would be gold if she didn't touch it with her tongue ever showed a more innocent and misplaced credulity than those who absorb the description that an average landlord gives in his letter. Indiana's claim of producing more fiction writers per square foot than any other spot in the world becomes as worthless as the bird on last year's hat when one considers the amount of imagination shown by Shanghai residents, with apartments for rent.

Pilgrims about to set forth on an apartment-hunting progress usually begin by picking out the addresses on the most likely streets. The trouble is, however, that Shanghai streets change character as often as the heroine of a psychopathic drama with six personalities and two love affairs on her hands. Shifting gears on the metaphor it might be further explained that some of them which begin with a modest suggestion of a cold cream massage and a talcum powder rub show signs of needing a shave later in their course, finally ending with a two weeks' growth of beard and a celluloid collar.

It sometimes happens that prospective renters quite overlook the telling phrase in the address: "Passage 38" or some other number, which means that their happy home is a Chinese alley that doesn't consider garbage anything to be ashamed of or weeping infants

SHANGHAI FIRMS LOSE HEAVILY IN LOOT OF ICHANG BY SOLDIERS

Robert Dollar Co., Arnhold Bros., Bank Of China
And Others Suffer; Property Damage Estimated
At More Than Two Million Dollars

AMERICAN GUNBOAT ON SCENE

Outbreak One Of The Most Serious Ever Recorded;
Lives Of Foreigners Endangered; Is Repetition Of Uprising Six Months' Ago

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hankow, June 5.—News has been received from a Consular source that Ichang was looted yesterday. The Robert Dollar Company's premises were looted and fire still burning. Messrs. Arnhold Brothers and Company's premises were pillaged, and the Bank of China has been wrecked. In the native city there has been extensive looting, and a large part of it has been burnt.

The disturbances are attributed to troops, who are being transferred.

FEAR TROUBLE AT SHASI

The American gunboat Palos is expected to arrive at Ichang this morning. Trouble is anticipated at Shasi.

Peking, June 6.—An official telegram from Ichang states that the Japanese Consulate and the Customs House were damaged by the rioters there. The soldiers have since left Ichang, taking their loot with them, apparently to Haini whither they were being transferred when the looting occurred.

PREMIER'S OFFER IN COAL STRIKE 'OPEN BUT 2 WEEKS'

Significant Proviso In Latest
Statement Of Government Position

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 5.—The definite nature of the Prime Minister's letter to the Miners' Executive, which stated that the Government had nothing further to propose and that its offer of May 27 could not be prolonged for more than a fortnight, has created a sensation among its recipients. A significant point in the letter is a suggestion that a ballot be taken by the miners on the rejected government proposals before the expiration of the fortnight during which the offer remains open. Their rejection up to the present has been the result of voting in the miners' district councils.

The Sunday Times insists on the desirability of a ballot, while meetings of colliery engineers are being held in Scotland to demand a ballot to test the real feeling of the miners on the question of resuming work.

London, June 6.—The coal owners held out the olive branch to the miners last night when Mr. Evan Williams, the President of the Mining Association, sent a letter to Mr. Frank Hodges stating that at the meeting of his executive to-day he would propose that the miners be invited to meet them to talk matters over.

Mr. Williams says that the Prime Minister's time limit as regards the £10,000,000 subvention introduces a factor which the coal owners cannot ignore. He points out that although the offer does not affect them financially, it is immensely valuable to the workers and the coal owners are most desirous that they should not lose it.

London, June 4.—The fact that several railways have announced an increase in train services, and reports that miners in one or two districts are displaying an inclination to resume work, are regarded as confirming the hopes of an early settlement of the coal dispute.

The miners at Swanwick in Derbyshire resumed work yesterday, agreeing to a temporary settlement, and today work is proceeding satisfactorily, large numbers being engaged in clearing the heavy falls in the underground railways, and the ponies were taken down. There was also a partial resumption at the Haywood colliery in Lanarkshire.

The Executive of the Miners' Federation met today in London. Interviewed before the meeting, they declared themselves unanimous in rejecting the coal-owners' latest offer, but after two hours conference, the Executive received a message from the Prime Minister and adjourned till Monday to consider it.

The Prime Minister replied to the Miners' Executive that the Government had nothing further to propose. Its offer of May 27 could not be prolonged for more than a fortnight.

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Hankow, June 6.—The garrison at Ichang mutinied Saturday and looted the city. A large part of the city has been burnt out and the blaze is not yet out.

Foreign firms suffering damages included the Robert Dollar premises, which were looted, and are burning still; Arnhold Brothers place was ransacked, and the Bank of China was wrecked.

PEOPLE FLEEING

Looting in native streets has been of an extensive scope, and the residents are fleeing. The United States gunboat Palos left Hankow yesterday, and may arrive at Ichang this morning. General Wang Chuan-yuan has ordered troops to the scene. No definite cause is known for the mutiny since the troops are full paid up to a month ago. It is reported that "several" between opium trading soldiers and opium raiders started the outbreak. Business circles at Hankow are quite alarmed at the situation.

FORMER OUTBREAK

It is believed in Shanghai that the recent outbreak of troops at Ichang is of more serious nature than the preceding uprising that occurred six months ago on November 29, 1920 when more than 60 persons were killed and a considerable portion of the city was burned after it had been given over to three days of looting. In the former uprising the property loss ran to more than $2,000,000.

The only indication of the cause of the new mutiny is that given in the message from Hankow of Tsin China Press correspondent. This attributes the trouble to a clash between opium trading soldiers and opium raiders. Recent dispatches from up the Yangtze tell of considerable activity on the part of opium raiders and the seizure of large stores of the drug.

While messages so far received tell only of the looting of the offices of the Robert Dollar Company, Arnhold Brothers and Company and the Bank of China it is thought highly improbable that other foreign establishments in Ichang escaped damage. It is also probable that wire communication down the river will be interrupted as happened when the outbreak occurred last year.

OTHER FOREIGN FIRMS

Three banking establishments located at Ichang are the Bank of China, the Bank of Communications and Young Brothers Banking Corporation. Among other foreign firms that have establishments in Ichang are Butterfield and Swire, Mackenzie and Company, the Nissen Kisen Kaisha, whose godown was burned in the former uprising and the British American Tobacco Company. Most of these offices are located in The Bund at Ichang, a thoroughfare about 400 yards in length. The quarters of the British American Tobacco Company, however, are located some distance away near the Ichang Club, in a location particularly open to attack.

It was not believed here last night that the American gunboat Palos, ordered from Hankow to Ichang, would arrive at the port until today. Besides the Palos the Elcano of the American Yangtze patrol is also proceeding with all speed to Ichang several hours behind the Palos and there is a possibility that a third American gunboat, the Villalobos, which recently has been stationed near Changsha, may be ordered to proceed up the river. It is understood also that British and Japanese gunboats are proceeding to the scene of the disturbance. So far as is known here no foreign gunboats were in the neighborhood of Ichang when the trouble started.

PALOS NEAR SHANGHAI

The Palos, which it is expected will be the first gunboat to reach Ichang, according to estimates made last night, at that time was somewhere between Chungking and Shanghai.

The city of Ichang which is about a thousand miles from the coast, long has been the principal point of transshipment of goods bound up and down the Yangtze. It is located a short distance from the point where the Yangtze escapes from the long chain of gorges and rapids which comprises its channel for 350 miles. Here cargoes from Chungking and points in Szechuen province are unloaded from junks and put aboard steamers bound down stream and shipments brought up river by steamers are transferred to junks bound up through the rapids.

In the past two years steamer traffic up the river through the gorges has been developing rapidly by means of specially constructed, high powered light draft craft, built to withstand the sweeps of current and whirlpools in the rapids.

The port of Ichang normally has a population of about 40,000 with probably as many as fifty foreign residents.

Manager J. H. O'Brien of the Robert Dollar Company offices saved the firm's books and accounts, according to a telegram received here yesterday by Mr. J. Harold Dollar, who left for Ichang last night. The office and its furniture were destroyed by the looting soldiers.

Coal Strike Offer "Open But 2 Weeks"

tives to reach a settlement, is regarded as most disastrous. The operatives' representatives express the opinion that the mill-owners' attitude is bound up with the coal stoppage, because, with the mines closed, the mills are running with difficulty.

Hence, they say, a complete stoppage is favorable to the employers. The position of the workers is bad, as they have been working short-time for months, but here also it is hoped that Government intervention will save the situation.

The Minister of Labor is today having both parties to confer with him in London on Tuesday, with a view to resuming negotiations.

London, June 6.—The Miner's Executive has accepted the suggestion of the coal-owners to discuss the present situation with regard to the strike, and a conference between representatives of the two parties was opened today.

Speaking at Allerton, Mr. Thomas Spencer, a trustee of the Derbyshire Miners' Association, said that the miners' leaders must recognize the fact that they were beaten on the question of a profit pool. They had been chasing a will of the wisp while thousands of miners' families were starving and the country was heading for ruin.

There would, he declared, be no excuse for the leaders rejecting the coal-owners' offer to discuss the question of wages from a practical view-point. The threatened withdrawal of the Government's offer of a ten million pound subsidy necessitated somebody's making a move in the direction of a settlement.

Semenoff's Men Taken Over By Japs

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, June 5.—The arrested Semenoff Ministers have been handed over to the Japanese authorities.

The Vladivostok Town Council, which was constituted in 1915, and has been reinstated, has passed a resolution, felicitating Ataman Semenoff as the staunchest anti-Bolshevik leader in the Far East, but at the same time requesting him as a true patriot to abstain from interfering in the present situation, and likewise to prevent his followers at Grodekovo from disturbing law and order in Vladivostok and the Maritime Province.

Colonel Yamamoto, of the defunct Russo-Japanese Conciliation, states that he considers it unlikely that the Red forces will infringe the Japanese agreement with the late administration, and invade the territory occupied by Japanese troops.

Mixed Court Jottings

As a result of a stabbing affray which grew out of an argument over a 20-cent gambling debt a Chinese is in hospital with serious knife wounds in the back and head. The victim of the knife was charged in the Mixed Court yesterday and the case was remanded pending the recovery of the complainant.

An employer who appeared to press an embezzlement charge against a shroff drew a reprimand from the bench yesterday. The defendant in the case was charged with embezzling $5,000 from a cotton hong at 84 Ningpo Road. He admitted taking the money and said that he had lost it gambling. His salary, he said, was $5 a month. The Assessor remarked that this was a case where the complainant should be imprisoned himself for allowing the accused to handle large sums of money while working for such a pittance. The accused was sent to jail for a year.

A housewife was sentenced to a year's imprisonment yesterday for theft of clothing, jewelry and money to the total value of $760 from Mr. C. S. Williams, 17 Nanjing Road. The boy stated that he had lost the money gambling.

Apartments Here Scarce As Zebras

anything to muzzle. Apartments of this type are usually built on the Duplex plan, the two floors being connected by a staircase about as abrupt in its descent as the pole the fireman slide down when the alarm rings. Anybody with feet longer than the Chinese golden fly variety has to go down sideways. These apartments are also furnished with running water—that is, the water runs if somebody pours it out of a bucket.

Long and dark is the way of the apartment house hunters' discomfition. It leads through front vestibules with a finger-marked towel draped negligently over the banister, under attic eaves which in the summer would constitute an ideal fireless cooker, and out on verandas that afford an excellent view of a Slough of Despond where mosquitoes sing grand opera every evening.

It leads into apartments where the renter is expected to take over the furniture—consisting of chairs evidently constructed on shipboard under the influence of a heavy list, bureaus with beveled mirrors, and a couple of hand-painted golden rods on the side, and a kitchen stove built on the open-work plan. Sometimes the house-hunter is asked to board the family pets and the baby for the summer, or to allow lodgers in an inside room the right of making a parade-ground of the apartment.

Occasionally the seeker finds a pearl of great price in the shape of a liveable home, but as a rule the brace of bachelors or covet of spinsters or married couple take one reluctant backward glance at the dream of a self-managed nest, and then assume their places resolutely behind the tarnished caster and wait for the boy to bring on the two-ply taploca.

JAP PLANTERS IN THE PHILIPPINES UPSET OVER BILL

Law To Confirm Leases Not Approved By U. S. President As Required

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, May 26 (by mail).—Japanese planters in Davao who hold leased areas of land are worried over the status of a bill passed by the Philippine Legislature more than a year ago, and not yet submitted to the President of the United States for final action.

The bill provided that certain foreign corporations, principally Japanese, could have their leaseholds confirmed, despite the provision of Philippine law prohibiting further acquisitions of land by Japanese. The leases which were to be confirmed by the bill in question were those which had been applied for previously to the passing of the prohibitory act. It was felt that such action was necessary in justice to Japanese who had arranged to lease lands before the prohibition became effective, as otherwise they would be the victims of an ex post facto measure.

It now appears, however, that although the relief bill was duly passed by the Legislature, it was not submitted to the President of the United States, a course which is prescribed by the Jones law for all measures affecting Philippine lands. No reason is given for the failure of Philippine officials to refer the bill to Washington for approval or disapproval, and the time limit of six months for so doing has already expired.

Apparently, therefore, the bill is a nullity, and the Japanese rights to leaseholds in these instances have not been legally confirmed. Consul-General Kurusu of Japan has taken up the matter with responsible officials, and it is hoped that a solution will be arrived at.

Chinese Merchants In The Philippines To Aid Motherland

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, May 26 (by mail).—The first convention of Chinese merchants in the Philippines, which was in session here recently, passed a number of resolutions at its closing session, designed to strengthen relations with Chinese in the homeland, and to lead to greater harmony with the Filipino people.

The merchants went on record as favoring the investment of their surplus capital in enterprises in China. The resolution stated that it was the duty of every Chinese to aid in the economic development of the mother country. It was also resolved to send a party of Chinese business men home from the Philippines every year, in order to study business conditions in China, and endeavor to promote trade between the continent and the Philippines.

The Convention also decided to petition the China Banking Corporation of Manila to establish branch banks throughout the Philippines. Other resolutions dealt with the adoption of a uniform system of Chinese bookkeeping and the compilation of a handbook of Chinese commercial words and phrases, for distribution to merchants all over the islands.

Business Outlook In America Better

During the recent visit of the Wenatchee an encouraging note with reference to the business situation in America was received from New York, under date of April 19, by Mr. Chas. F. Seeger, Special Representative of the Northern Pacific Railway, who is a member of the Commission of Business Men who are traveling by this steamer. The message reads as follows:

"Business conditions are improving very rapidly, due to the fact that the Labor Board has revoked their railroad labor laws and suggested sixteen points, which seem very favorable to the railroads. Also, the decision yesterday was handed down stating that the individual roads which claimed the right of reduction of wages will be sustained in making reductions. If proper adjustment can be made, so the whole market is stronger and business really is looking up in all quarters."

TWO CHINESE KILLED

Two Chinese were killed at the Dah Yue oil mill yesterday afternoon when a floor collapsed, sending tons of bean cake into an unused well under the ground floor. The Chinese were working on top of the piles of bean cake when some 20 square feet of the flooring gave way. One body was recovered.

U-Boat Commander Acquitted At Leipzig

(Reuter's Service)

Leipzig, June 4.—The trial of the fourth and last British case in connection with German war criminals was concluded today when Karl Neumann, the submarine commander who sank the hospital ship Dover Castle, was acquitted, on the ground that he was bound to obey the orders of his superiors.

The President of the Court said that the German Government would bear all the costs of the Neumann case. All civilized nations, he added, recognized the principle that a subordinate was covered by the orders of his superiors. There was nothing to prove that the accused was guilty of cruelty, as the Allies had alleged. The Court was of the opinion that his orders were justified.

The British Commission afterwards bade farewell to the President.

CHRISTIANS SLAIN

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

New York, June 2.—A message received from Athens via London states that massacres of Christians have occurred at Samos and Trebizond. The streets were strewn with dead Greeks and many shops were looted. American destroyers have arrived on the scene to protect American citizens.

SEMIENOFF OFFICERS FLOCK TO VLADIVOSTOK

Trains Leaving Harbin Thronged With Former Army Men

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Harbin, June 1.—Events in the Maritime Province have created a tremendous sensation at Harbin which since the defeat of Semienoff's army at Borzla last year was full of officers and men, who had left the army, but who in the majority of cases had not been able to secure jobs here. Consequently the trains leaving east are thronged with these men, who are hastily returning to the army.

Many representatives of various non-socialist organisations have also left for Vladivostok, where they hope to take part in the formation of the new Government.

A prominent political leader from the Ural, M. Ivanoff is often mentioned in connection with schemes for a new Government, and it is believed that he has been offered one of the most important posts.

CHITA ALARMED
Advices from Chita state that the Government is extremely alarmed by the recent events, and fears that they may influence the population of Middle Eastern Siberia towards similar outbreaks. It is reported that the situation is especially serious in the Nerchinsk and Sretensk regions, the population of which has always shown a strong tendency towards revolution and has in all times and under all regimes consisted of discontented and belligerent elements. It is persistently rumored that the partisans in this region have pushed back the red troops to the railway and are continuing to advance.

According to the Russian Golos, strong partisan detachments, which, the journal states, has nothing in common with Ungern, are operating against the Reds in the Troitzko-Savsk region. The leader of this detachment is a Colonel Plevako, who in the days of the Derber Government at Vladivostok was Commander of the town.

Similar detachments are being formed in other parts of Transbaikalia.

Latest reports from Mongolia indicate that Ungern is preparing to march against Transbaikalia and, in exchange for his promise to the Hutuktu and Mongolian princes not to interfere in their affairs, has secured their promise to supply his army with arms, munitions and food required for his operations in Siberia.

It is rumored that Ungern's vanguard is advancing from Aksha in two directions—towards Borzla and Povorotnaia.

It appears that the Reds are concentrating their forces on the river and have consequently been forced to weaken the garrisons on the Chita-Manchuria line and it is believed that Ungern's plan is to attack the railway before the Reds have time to bring up reinforcements.

German Cabinet O.K'd By Reichstag

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, June 4.—In the Reichstag today, the German National Communist motions refusing a vote of confidence was rejected overwhelmingly. A vote of confidence introduced by the three Coalition parties, approving the Government's declaration regarding the fulfillment of the ultimatum, was adopted by 213 votes to 77.

The second section of the resolution, dealing with the Government's attitude in regard to Upper Silesia, was also passed by big majority. The German people's Party abstained from voting.

Paris, May 30 (delayed).—While readily concurring with the British Government's view as to the expediency of holding a meeting of the Supreme Council at Lougoune to discuss the Upper Silesian problem, the French Government, according to Le Temps, has expressed the opinion that order should be restored there first so as to ensure that the council's decisions will be respected by the Poles and Germans alike.

London, June 5.—Reuter is informed that the situation in Upper Silesia has not improved. The insurgents are blowing up bridges and preventing the passage of food trains, parties of Poles firing on the engineers who are repairing the lines.

The Poles have seized Pless and have hoisted the Polish flag. The French garrison at Pless, however remains in barracks. The Poles have also surrounded Tarnowitz and seized the railway station there although the French remains in the town.

YOUTHS CHARGED FOR DISTURBANCE IN HONGKEW PARK

One Accused Of Attempted Murder; Others Of Inciting Revolution

The six young Chinese students captured at Hongkew Park Saturday afternoon after one had discharged a pistol in the crowd appeared in the Mixed Court before Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Kwan yesterday, when the youth who fired the shot was charged with attempting to murder Parkkeeper R. R. Crooks and the others were charged with distributing revolutionary literature with intent to overthrow the government.

No testimony was adduced, the police requesting a week's remand to permit further investigation before proceeding with the case.

The youth who wielded the pistol is 19 years of age and of the other one is 24, two are 19 and one 20. All describe themselves as students. The principal accused, it was found, came to Shanghai from Chungking about a month ago and had been living at 152 Rue Wagner, in the French Concession. Search of these premises resulted in the discovery of more revolutionary pamphlets and leaflets. The two men arrested at lodgings in Frenchtown on information received from the six taken at the Park are in custody of the French police and there is little, if any, evidence against them thus far. One was questioned by the Municipal police and was then returned to the French authorities.

The pistol used in the shooting at the Park was turned over to the police Sunday by the foreigner who picked it up after Dr. H. H. Morris had captured and disarmed the man.

The prisoner's story is that he fired to protect himself after he had been attacked by a Japanese, but according to witnesses he drew the weapon and discharged it at Boy Scouts who were chasing him because of his distribution of the leaflets. Mr. Crooks states that the accused fired two shots at him and it is on this that the attempted murder charge is based.

BUILDERS' STRIKE DEADLOCK STILL; NO NEGOTIATIONS

Employers Appeal To Men To Send Delegates To Confer

The carpenters' and masons' strike situation remained practically unchanged yesterday, with the same lack of communication between the strikers and the employers which has characterised the affair and puzzled officials ever since the walk-out commenced six days ago.

It is now estimated that the number of workers who have laid down their tools in the Settlement is about 3,500, while the addition of those in the districts outside brings the total to about 5,000. Workers employed by foreign contracting firms have not joined the strike, though efforts have been made in some instances to get them to join in the movement.

Officials of the carpenters' and masons' guild state that at no time previous to stoppage of work have the employers been regularly approached with requests for wage increases or betterment of conditions. There have been no meetings or direct negotiations between representatives of the parties since the strike began. The employers on Sunday caused to be posted outside of the guild, in the Shanghai City, a notice asking that representatives of the men be sent to them in order that discussion may be held and the guild is also circulating the strikers in an effort to get them to return to work.

The fact that the demonstration is so lacking of organised direction is taken as an indication that it cannot continue very much longer, but it is also seen as confirmation of the belief that revolutionary agents have been exceedingly active among the laboring classes here of late. The men went out apparently as a result of a signed circular purporting to come from the guild. This circular the guild has repudiated and the names appended to it have been found to be fictitious.

Five strikers were arrested by the Bubbling Well district yesterday for causing a disturbance and trying to intimidate workers on Taiping Road. They will appear in the Mixed Court today. On Sunday an effort was made by pickets to intimidate fifty workmen of the Wei Fong company in Hongkew, but a foreigner in charge called the police and when the latter arrived the disturbers had gone. Some 350 women workers of the Nanyang Tobacco factory in Wayide went on strike Saturday because they were transferred to an unfamiliar department of the plant and put on piece work. The matter was adjusted and they returned to work Sunday. The casual workers of the Waterworks company, who went out a week ago have resumed their labors, having been granted an increase of 5 copper cents per day.

POLITICS SEEN IN TEACHER-STUDENT PEKING OUTBREAK

Concession Of Old Demands
Rejected; Leaders
Face Trial

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 4.—The strife between the Ministry of Education and the teachers and students is generally considered to be more than a mere educational question. This view is created by the uncompromising attitude of the students, who, in their interview with the Vice-Minister of Education on Friday, refused to listen to any statement regarding the Government's readiness to pay salaries, and to institute the changes which the students have hitherto desired, and by the fact that certain teachers who are already under engagement to serve the South-Western University have taken a leading part in the recent demonstrations.

According to the Vice-Minister of Education, he was refused a hearing, and was then forced by a group of teachers to accompany the demonstrators to the Hsing-hua Men. On arriving there, he endeavored to persuade the others to halt while he interviewed the Premier, but again he was met with the firmest opposition, and when the student leader gave the order to rush through the gate en masse, with a view to interviewing the President, those in the rear thrust forward the Vice-Minister, who was violently assaulted from behind. At this juncture the officer in charge of the guard recognized the Vice-Minister, and drew him inside the gate.

All official accounts agree that the soldiers only used the butts of their rifles when the students attempted to rush the gate, but they then dealt freely and roughly with the demonstrators who were unable to cope with the armed guards. On being driven back, the students of both sexes remained outside the gate till a late hour, when they were driven away by force.

A mass meeting is threatened for tomorrow, and there is reason to fear that the trouble is by no means at an end. There is no doubt that the great majority of students are actuated by high motives, but that some of their leaders are merely puppets, influenced by political cliques opposed to the Government, and endeavoring to cause its fall.

It is stated in Government circles that a legal investigation of the matter, and a trial of the offenders, will be taken in connection with yesterday's incident, and that any further demonstrations will be met with firm, but legal, measures.

The Peking government has instructed the High Procurator to institute legal proceedings against two student leaders who led in the demonstration on Friday when Ma Ling-yi, new Vice-Minister of Education was injured. Liang Tu is accused of interfering with public officials in the execution of their duty while Ma Shu-lun is charged with disturbing the peace.

Another demonstration was held by students and teachers on Saturday but the crowd dispersed when news of police interference was received. On Sunday, representatives met in executive session and circulated the country with messages, setting forth their grievances. A memorandum will be filed with President Hsu.

The Cabinet is drafting a circular in reply to the charges made by the students and teachers. The president has expressed regret at the action of the gendarmes in handling the students. It is ascertained that the assault was started by the forces of Wang Hui-ching, Chief of the Gendarmes at Peking.

More Troops To Be Sent To Gen. Chang

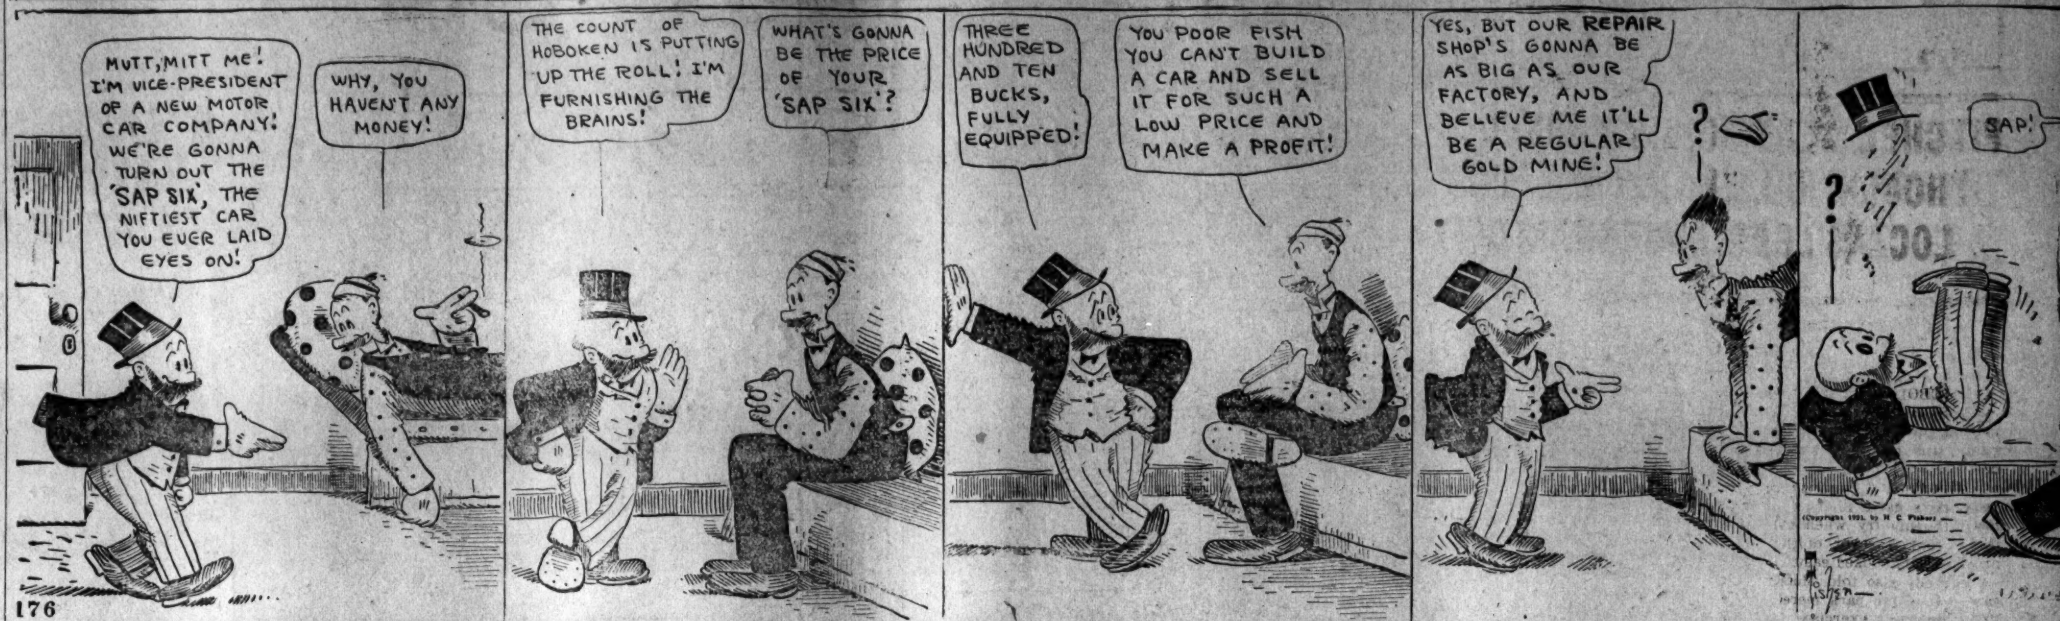

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 5.—More Fengtien troops are to be sent to Kalgan immediately. The 15th Mukden Mixed Brigade, under the command of Major-General Pao Teh-shan, which is stationed at Chialingcheng, has received orders to move up to the front. The High Commissioner for Mongolia has suggested the construction of two light railways, one from Hsuanhua to Kuelhua and the other from Kalgan to Dolonor, to facilitate transport for the troops. Prince Kalachin and Prince Nayintaw will leave shortly for Mongolia where they will give every assistance to the Chinese Command. It is stated that General Chang Tso-liu will make a very short stay in Mukden and, almost immediately after his arrival there, will leave again for Tsuanfufu, where he intends to establish his headquarters.

Women Of Changsha In Fight For Rights

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, May 31.—The women of Changsha City, Hunan province, are strenuously contending for better legal status for Chinese womenhood, taking advantage of the present session of the Revision Committee of the Hunan provincial constitution. For this purpose the Hunan Women's Union has been organized with Miss Chen Shou as president.

The Union has been very successful, having inserted in the draft of the provincial constitution clauses bearing on women's rights. Its activities, however, have given rise to a counter movement, and a party of committee men have united to fight the women suffragists.

At one session, the question of women's right to inherit property from parents was brought on, when the representative of the Women's Union endeavored to win the parliamentary debate by force of her forensic eloquence. But because of pre-arranged votes of her opposing party, she was not able to fight the issue to a favorable conclusion.

PITCHER DENNISON IS YANKED THOUGH RELIEF IS COLD AND LOCALS LEAD; SHANGHAI LOSES

Infantry Takes Game 5-2 When Management's Brains Rush To Feet; Locals Beat Marines And 15th Bests Huron On Sunday

SOMEbody told Dennison, Shanghai's new-found star twirler, to go to the dressing room and take his shower and consider his day's work well done at the end of the fifth inning of yesterday's game Shanghai versus the 15th Infantry when the score was 2 to 1 in favor of the locals and the going looked easy.

Somebody also told Moody, who came out to the park merely for a little limbering exercise for his sore wing, to go in and pitch. Moody had been warming the bench for five innings; he was as cold as a Shanghai landlady when the room-rent is long overdue. He didn't have a thing and he knew it. Yet he hopped gaily forth to the pitching job with as much chance as a hospital patient might have in a finish fight with Jack Dempsey.

FOUR RUNS, NO WICKETS
This is how he fared: Hutchinson and Cummings, the first two men up, walked, while Moody was warming up. Ratten was safe on a fielder's choice and the bases were filled. Moody was still throwing them high, wide and handsome, yet Oberkoffer managed by long reaching to strike out. About this stage C. Jack Smith, who for some unknown reason had relieved Roeser as backstop, let a pitched ball slip through the new glove and all the base runners advanced a notch tying the score.

Then Madge rapped out a little one and got safe on a close decision, while Cummings scored. Smith swung the ball to Crow to choke Ratten off, but the throw was wide, and Ratten scored. Moody fanned Hinckley and S. F. Smith in center stopped the slaughter by grabbing off Bowden's high, deep fly for the third out.

In the next inning Hutchinson put one to the Cricket Club House for a homer. Shanghai in the sixth and seventh did nothing more than go out, one, two, three. Dennison, who worked the first five innings of yesterday's game, was going like a big leaguer. He had everything from box form to control and the Infantrymen were at his mercy. Shanghai was working behind him in a close-knit style that would win in any league. Pruitt in left dropped Cummings' fly in the first inning and an error by Woods on the next batter permitted the first run. After that, however, only one Infantry man reached first base. It was easy picking.

HOW LOCALS SCORED
Shanghai's two runs resulted from Roeser in the fourth, getting first as an award for taking an inshoot in the ribs and S. F. Smith following with a home run far out in center field. Two other men got on in the inning and they were left on base from then on the Infantry tightened up and the local players hadn't a chance. By maintaining their close play with the line-up unchanged Shanghai would have won out 2-1. But as before stated, the lineup was changed and the game was lost.

The Tientsin Infantry nine left last night for home. Their trip southwards gave them three games, of which they won two, one over the Huron team and the other over Shanghai yesterday. Their one lost game was to the Philippines in the open games. That score was 7-0. The Peking Marines also left port by boat yesterday for the North with a less satisfactory record for their Southern trip, having lost the two games in which they participated, one to Philippines 10-2, and the other to Shanghai 11-7.

Olympic Pictures At Apollo Tonight

Moving pictures of the Far Eastern championships and the open games held in connection with the Olympics will be screened at the Apollo Theater beginning tonight and will undoubtedly draw big houses. The films were made by Pathe Freres. They were screened at a private showing yesterday and at the conclusion, the Apollo management immediately engaged the picture for the rest of the week.

Baer: CLAIMS WREATH OF POISON IVY

Bumpy Oats Is The New Pretender To The Roughtown Academy Of Immortal Thugs

BY 'BUGS' BAER

What chance has Roughtown with the town of Killum, County Down? Killum was a little homicidal villa nestling in the heart of Vesuvius. The cornerstone of every building was a hot coal. The champion of Killum was Bumpy Oats.

I was Bumpy's manager on the days that he got out of bed on his right foot. On other days he was unmanageable. Bumpy met Gink Fowler one night on the mezzanine floor of Vesuvius. Bumpy would only fight inside of five volcanoes. They fought in hot lava up to their necks. One punch from Bumpy and Gink's seconds picked him up with rubber gloves, sorted him out through an ash sieve and deposited the remains in a bank under his wife's name.

Gink Fowler thought why, let me tell you something. Bumpy worked for years in a foundry as a puddler's helper. He got too tough for that and went into a boat yard, where he used to catch RED HOT RIVETS IN HIS MOUTH. In order to get the right effect, read this like it was printed in red ink on Captain Kidd's battle flag.

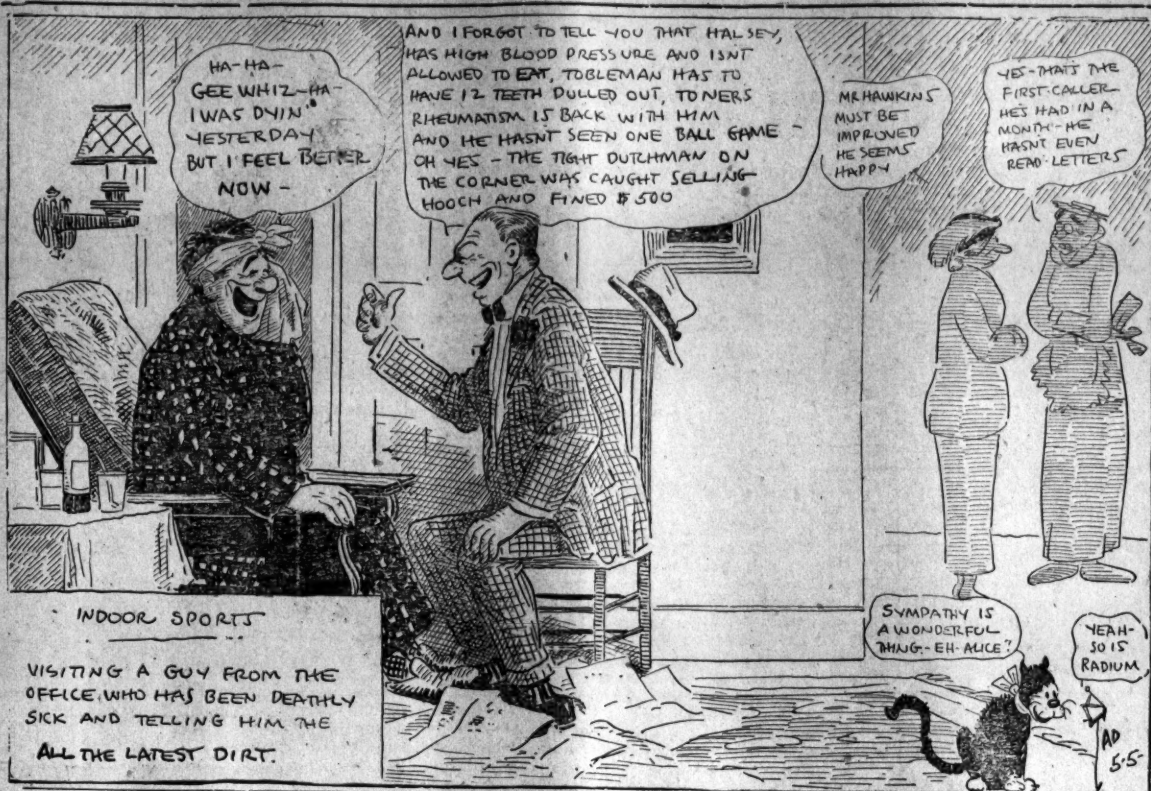

Sounds reasonable. But childish. Volcanoes, homicide and teething on incandescent rivets were but innocent pranks of juveniles in Roughtown. The town was built on quicksand, the streets were front line trenches, and the doorways on each threshold were wolf traps.

The municipal illumination plant was the lightning that comes with havoc-dealing thunder storms. Sticks of dynamite were sold in bundles for kindling wood. Before the days of prohibition they sold liquor in that town that would make one of Singer's Midgets ride to hounds on a sway backed crocodile.

After prohibition they peddled booze that would grow a full beard on a bisque kewpie. This was the town where even canned sardines were liable to snap at you from the shelf in the delicatessen store. The town now knows that Roughtown was the town where the canary birds sang bass, but little do they reckon that Roughtown was also the love nest where charlotte ruses had thorns on 'em. Watta town! Watta town! All an evening's amusement cost you in Roughtown was the price of a black jack and a friend on the jury.

During the great war, what did the Mayor of Roughtown say? He said, "Fellow tax dodgers and dog jockeys. We must stick together if it takes all the cork plaster in the world." Under the third button of the Mayor's vest beat the largest heart in the world. Ample protected beneath a small freckle on his accordion pleated skull, throbbled the largest brain in the world. Time, the Great Scalpel, had tomahawked him of his luxuriant hair. But his face was still young and his mind still thrilled with the buoyant genius of juvenile delinquency. They sold corrugated iron lingerie in the village hardware store and every man had two hats. One to wear without lumps on his head and the other to wear with lumps. Roughtown was a model town. It was a model for Kruppe.

JAPAN EXPECTS BABE RUTH AT OPENING OF PARK

But Yankees May Not Figure That Slugger Can Leave New York

Babe Ruth may be present at the opening of the new baseball grounds at Yokohama next August. Y. Kushioki, a Japanese manager, is now negotiating with the famous batter to come to Japan for a visit of two months, and incidentally be on hand to participate at the big opening.

The Yokohama Baseball Company has secured a large tract of land for $100,000. The location for the new ball park is ideal and when work is completed it will be the finest of its kind in Japan. Tram cars stop at the grounds and they are easily reached by motor from Yokohama. Special grandstands will be erected for foreigners and the comfort of women will be looked after.

A professional baseball league has already been formed which includes the Tokyo Denki, Chinese, Shoyu, Minato, Jitsugyo, Kamakura and "J" Club teams. A picked team from Hawaii is assured, which will be brought by S. Tsuchiya, editor of the Hawaii Hochi, who is one of the most enthusiastic baseball fans in Hawaii.

Stock in the new company has just been offered for public subscription.

Sports Correspondence

Sports Editor, CHINA PRESS, Shanghai.

Dear Sir:
I wish to straighten out a little misunderstanding that brought doubt in the Press sheets on Sunday (yesterday) morning as to whether or not, the Shanghai Baseball Club paid the expenses of the Marine Baseball Team to Shanghai.

The Shanghai Baseball Club did not pay one cent of our expenses on our trip to Shanghai. Our transportation and subsistence were furnished by the Navy from Chinwangtao by the U.S.S. Genesey and we return today by the same way.

Please make note of this in your paper so that the public in Shanghai will understand.

I thank you and remain Yours very truly

Duponts and Haig. Everybody in town knew each other by their first names and a lot of others that they would think up as they went along. They trusted each other like cat and mice. There wasn't a lock on a door in the town. Nor a hint. Some day, when we are sick of the world's strife, and tired of living, we hope to go back to the sweet atmosphere of Roughtown and spend our last few seconds of old age dodging shrapnel, which is listed as French pastry on the Roughtown menu.

California Team Winning From Japan College Nines

The University of California baseball team which is now touring Japan meeting all of Nippon's University nines easily won their first two games at Tokyo against Keio and Meiji universities.

The Californians in these games gathered eighteen hits from each of the opposing pitchers, for scores, against Keio of 11 to 1 and against Meiji of 17 to 3. Japanese batters got but four hits in the first game and six in the second.

G. Makin of the visiting team rapped out a homer, two triples, two doubles and two singles in the two games, while Thompson the catcher counted two homers, two triples, a double, and two singles in ten times at bat.

The California team's schedule calls for play in Tokyo until June 14, when a trip will be made to Osaka to play the Diamond team which played in Shanghai during the Olympic and Open Game series. After this series the California boys return to Tokyo and will spend the time sightseeing until they sail for San Francisco on June 24.

The California team, which is the third championship nine that the

INTERPORT TENNIS STARTS AT FRENCH CLUB TODAY; TWO SINGLES MATCHES ON

Ng Sze Kwong Of Hongkong Playing Mansel Smith; Lo Meeting Tanaka; Games Start Promptly At 4:15; Doubles Come Tomorrow

INTERPORT tennis will hold the boards for three days beginning this afternoon, when two singles matches will be staged at the French Club between players representing Shanghai and Hongkong. Today's matches start promptly at 4:15 o'clock. Ng Sze-kwong of Hongkong meets W. Mansel Smith of Shanghai and M. W. Lo of Hongkong plays J. Tanaka of Shanghai this afternoon.

A doubles match will be played tomorrow at the British Country Club between Ng Sze-kwong and W. Lok Wei of Hongkong and W. Mansel Smith and W. S. A. Pott of Shanghai. Ng plays Tanaka and Lo plays Mansel Smith on Thursday. It has not been decided where these matches are to be played.

The Hongkong team is the same that defeated Shanghai a year ago in Hongkong and the Chinese representatives of the Crown Colony all learned their tennis in England. Ng is by far the best tennis player in Hongkong with Lo a close runner up. Opposed to the English style of play will be Mansel Smith's combination of English and American tennis, Pott's American game and Tanaka's English play. Pott is not playing in the singles because of an injured knee, the St. John's man asking the selection committee not to consider him when picking the Shanghai team.

Both matches today should produce some excellent tennis. Ng defeated Pott three sets to love and won from Tanaka, 3-1, at Hongkong a year ago. In the Far Eastern championships he was beaten by Tanaka in a thrilling match, 8-6, 1-6, 6-4 and 6-2 but is capable of better tennis. Against Mansel Smith today Ng will be able to put up his best game as he has had a good rest after his strenuous Olympic week. Incidentally Ng was unable to play all the matches as he was not in the best of shape.

Mansel Smith is the latest addition to Shanghai tennis stars.

Interport Tennis This Afternoon

Singles
Ng Sze-kwong, Hongkong vs. W. Mansel Smith, Shanghai.
M. W. Lo, Hongkong vs. Tanaka, Shanghai.
Matches start at 4:15 o'clock on the courts of the Cercle Sportif Français.

Australians Get Jump On Middlesex

(Reuter's Service)
London, June 4.—In a match against Middlesex at Lord's today, the Australians won the toss and sent their opponents in to bat on a slow wicket. Middlesex, although they stayed on for over three hours, only made 111, Hendren contributing 34. Armstrong took five wickets for 14. The Australians had made 93 for six wickets at close of play. The weather was dull but fine, and the attendance numbered some 20,000.

He learned his game in England and then played in the United States, appearing in big matches in California.

Tanaka plays Lo this afternoon and the local man will have trouble in beating the Hongkong representative. One of the features of the last Interport tennis was the game between Lo and Pott.

By courtesy of the French Club, those interested are invited to attend the matches and stands have been erected around the courts in order to provide seating accommodation for the record crowd expected.

SHANGHAI BEATS MARINES

The game went along until the fifth when the Marines counted three. Olsen drove a homer to center. Crowder got safe at first on the force-out of Henley at second, and took second on McClaire's out. Crow to first. Bailey fled to short center, and Bills, trying to cover the whole diamond circled around under the ball until he muffed it. Crowder scored. Heintzelman singled to right advancing Bailey to third, and when he tried a steal the Roeser's throw to Bills went out into the gardens and Bailey scored. The score was Infantry three, Shanghai 1.

SHANGHAI BEATS MARINES

Shanghai came back in their half with two runs. Gine the score. Woods got safe on Hillbrand's bad throw to first and he continued on to second. Roeser and Sperry were easy outs but Merrill walked and Bills singled to left scoring Woods and advancing Merrill to third. The latter scored on a wild pitch.

SHANGHAI BEATS MARINES

In the sixth, with Merrill pitching and Hopkins going to right and Sperry to left, Austin walked. Fricke fled out to Sperry. Then Merrill hit two men filling the bases. Crowder made first when Bills threw Austin out at the plate, and with the bases filled again Cy Wilhoit let a fast grounder through his legs and four men came over the pan, putting the score at seven for the Infantry and three for the locals.

SHANGHAI BEATS MARINES

Shanghai's half of the sixth saw twelve men at bat, for a total of eight runs. Wilhoit walked, Smith singled to right and Bailey came in to pitch. Hopkins got first on Henley's fumble of Bailey's throw, and Wilhoit scored. Then a wild pitch brought Smith home and Hopkins to third. A balk set Hopkins in. Crow singled over second, Woods beat out a hunt. Crow and Woods

American Woman's Club Literary Department Meets

Traditions and art ideals which guided the instruments of Chinese wood and ivory carvers were explained Friday in two interesting talks given before the final meeting of the American Woman's Club Literary Department.

In describing the evolution of wood-carving, Mrs. J. H. Gray stated that the art was born in the service of religion, but that it was used later in the beautification of homes and public buildings. References to wood carving are common in the oldest records, and it is now one of the most important industrial arts of China despite the fact that the country is largely denuded of timber.

"In buildings the Chinese have many opportunities of using carved wood work," Mrs. Gray said. "They fill in the outline of beams and pillars with delicate tracery, have movable screens elaborately carved, line the walls with beautiful panels and decorate doors and windows with charming lattice work designs. This lattice work forms a large feature of Chinese decorative wood-work. It is used to fill in the space between roof and floor in garden pavilions and temples, for doorways, window gratings, railings and fronts of houses and shops and for dividing rooms. The simplest form of the carved lattice is seen in the small squares used for the ordinary paper windows in Chinese houses. In the Temple of Heaven in Peking, lattice work screens completely enclose the building and in the Summer Palace one sees much beautifully carved lattice work."

USES OF THE LINE

"The first object of the Chinese designer is to beautify the common objects of daily life and use. In the earliest decoration of wood simple parallel lines were used. Then similar lines at right angles forming squares and at other angles forming many patterns were combined with simple parallel lines. Later we find other uses of the line making designs founded on the swastika and Greek fret. Next the circular and curved patterns were used. Gradually into these line designs plant and animal forms were introduced by the carver. Waves, clouds and flame forms are rendered in wood decoration with great force."

"The peony, the lotus, which is the emblem of purity, the pine, the plum, the peach which signifies immortality, the pomegranate, the orchid and the bamboo are used much in floral carving. In a winter scene, the plum is used to represent spring, the peony is used; the lotus denotes summer and the chrysanthemum, autumn. In Imperial buildings the floral scrolls are united with bands and panels of dragons in clouds or two flying phoenixes. One beautiful combination is the theme of the squirrel and the vine, first used during the Sung dynasty."

"The most elaborate type of wood-carving is that devoted to landscape and figures. These are wonderfully done and, though the Chinese painter usually makes a very stiff drawing of a horse, the wood-carver invariably gives equestrian work both vigor and nobility."

"In China literature has been more closely connected with art than in any other country. The ideal Chinese artist has ever been a man of letters first—hence great use has been made of the Chinese written characters by the skilled woodcarver who is an artist and familiar with the characters which possess a high decorative value. Great use is made of those characters having mythical or religious meaning, for wood-carving today as well as in the past. The 'shou' or longevity character is often carved in circular patterns."

"When the design is ready it is drawn on thin, tough paper in Chinese ink. This paper is pasted on the wood and the chisel is then used following the design on the paper."

CARVINGS IN TEMPLES

"To truly understand the earliest wood-carving one must go to a Buddhist temple. In these buildings one finds the wood carved with sacred scenes and figures in scrolls of flowers intermingled with emblems of the religion. The early Buddhist pilgrims, coming from Northern India, brought with them images of Buddha, carved in white sandal wood. This fragrant wood is still imported from India into China for that purpose. The demand for idols and images all over China gives occupation to a special class of workmen. Thus we see that it is only as there is a demand for beautiful carvings that the art will be kept up; for the introduction of machinery, even in China, is having a sad destructive effect on the production of the decorative arts."

Mrs. Gray's talk was illustrated by many beautifully colored slides.

In presenting the subject of ivory carvings, Mrs. C. C. Gamble stated that they are referred to in Chinese literature as early as the sixth century. B.C. It is difficult, the speaker said, to assign a date to the ivory themselves as they rarely bear any emblem or signature. Imperial ivory works were established in Peking toward the end of the seventeenth century and endured for many years. The standards set at this time have never been surpassed.

COMMERCIALIZED NOW

"At the present time the carving in China, as in other countries, has become highly commercialized and lacks that delicacy and beauty that art for art's sake alone can produce," the speaker said. "Most of the really good carving in ivory is now executed in Canton, but even there the work is more distinguished for bizarre complexity of pattern than for artistic feeling. The ivory carving done in the Native City lacks the richness and fine workmanship that the Canton ivories display. There are really only a handful of experts in this art now living in China and practically all of them work in Canton. Ivory, too, is being consumed at such a great rate that the quantity is gradually decreasing and other materials are being used as substitutes."

Mrs. Gamble described in detail the intricacies of ivory carving and the instruments used in its production. The finishing touch in polishing is accomplished by the use of face-powder applied with a cloth.

"Carving seems to be an art designed for the patient and persevering toil of the Chinese, for no labor is too great to bestow on the most minute undertaking," the speaker declared. "In a country where time enters so little into the essence of life, days and months are lavishly spent on what would elsewhere be considered unremunerative work. Especially noted for their intricate and elaborate workmanship are the concentric balls, the miniature boats, and the architectural models carved in Canton. The carved balls containing from three to twenty interior balls, take about three months' labor to execute. The balls being carved one within the other, the outside ball being first pierced in many directions through the center. Then cutting instruments with stops on the handles are introduced and gradually the outside crust forming the outermost ball is detached from the remaining interior mass, while by the same means the surface of this interior ball is carved. This process is repeated with every successive ball as it is revolved in turn until a globular mass of intricate hollow balls is the result of the ingenuity of the Chinese artist-workman."

Specimens from the collections of Mr. R. D. Abraham and Mr. Bulow-Ravens illustrated the lecture.

All Ten Members Of Class American School Is Graduating This Year Are Going To Enter College In The U.S.

The fifth commencement exercises of the Shanghai American School will be held in the Masonic Hall at 5 p.m. on June 16. There are ten in the class, which is the largest yet to be graduated.

All are planning to go to America to college. Miss Frances White, who is the class president, will enter Dennison University in the fall. She sails for the United States on June 25. Miss Helen Proctor sails for America in June and will also enter Dennison College. Miss Helen Smith is sailing in July to enter Mt. Holyoke College. Pierson Parker will enter the University of California a year from this coming fall, spending the intervening year in Shanghai. Miss Ruth Robertson is to remain in Shanghai a year and then enter Purdue University.

Miss Gertrude Ekvall sails for the States on June 26, where she expects to enter the University of Wisconsin. Charles Duff sails in July and will enter Oberlin College. Walter Seymour is sailing very soon and will enter the University of Wisconsin.

Everyone of the graduating class is being accepted by their respective colleges with the highest recognition that is given to graduates of any high school in America. The splendid work that is being done in American colleges by graduates of the Shanghai American School is giving the school a good reputation, which is making it more easy each year for graduates of the school to secure admission to the colleges which they desire to enter.

BOURSE TO CLOSE

(Reuter's Service)
Amsterdam, June 4.—Stock-brokers here recently decided that the Bourse should close on Saturdays from June to October. The Government has ordered that the closing is to be applied only in July and August.

The staff of the Bourse spent today, Saturday, however, in singing, whistling, smoking and letting off fireworks, and thus prevented the issue of quotations.

JAPAN'S PRINCE

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 4.—Prince Hirohito today went to Fontainebleau, where he visited the Artillery School and attended the fetes in celebration of the centenary of Napoleon's death, held at the Palace.

Speaking at a commemorative ceremony, the Crown Prince recalled that Mutahida, when he undertook to reorganise the Japanese law, drew his inspiration from the codes of Napoleon. In reply to the toast of his health, the Imperial Highness referred to the influence that Napoleon's teaching still had in both France and Japan, and concluded by proposing the toast of the French Army.

Paris, June 6.—The Crown Prince of Japan is suffering from slight fatigue owing to the number of official receptions he has had to attend. His Imperial Highness therefore spent yesterday morning in places of interest.

TEETHING TIME NEED NOT MEAN TEARS

When baby's teeth are coming through as a time of worry to many mothers. The little one's gums become swollen and tender; he is cross; does not sleep well; is troubled with constipation, colic or diarrhoea, and sometimes even convulsions seize him.

During this period nothing can equal the use of Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy. They regulate the bowels and stomach, and make the teething so easy that the mother scarcely realises baby is getting his teeth. These Tablets are equally healthful and harmless to the youngest infant and the child of eight or more, curing constipation, indigestion, colic, diarrhoea, simple fever and expelling worms.

Baby's Own Tablets are to be had from chemists, also post free at 6d. from the Vial from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter) Sacramento, June 6.—The California law does not violate the treaty rights guaranteed to the Japanese or other aliens and has never attempted to do so, said Mr. Inman, the President of the Japanese Exclusion League, in a statement today.

Sectional Chief Resigns In North

(Reuter's Pacific Service) Peking, June 4.—Mr. Li Yuan has submitted to the Government his resignation of the post of Amban of Urumqi, Koko, Ula-sai and Ulan-gang, presumably in the belief that General Gansu's appointment as High Commissioner for the development of Mongolia conflicts with his post.

After withdrawing from China, Mr. Li went to Kalgan and while there suggested that he should establish an office in Inner Mongolia. The Government had given no reply to this suggestion when Mr. Li sent in his resignation.

FAST WORK HALTS DANGEROUS BLAZE AT CHINA GARAGE

Efficiency Of Brigade And Police Prevents Big Loss

Remarkably quick and efficient work by the Fire Brigade and police saved thousands of dollars worth of property and checked what had every indication of developing into a very disastrous fire at the China Garage, Foochow Road, last evening.

A chauffeur using an oil lamp to supervise the filling of a gasoline tank was responsible for the blaze. The chauffeur, the No. 1, had been instructed by the Chinese in charge of the Garage to have the tanks of two large trucks filled shortly before 8 p.m. One of the tanks had been successfully filled and a coolie was tilting a drum of fuel over the funnel in the tank of the second when the chauffeur went too close to the operations, the fumes from the gasoline ran into and exploded in the lampshade, the coolie dropped the drum and the whole rear of the garage's west wing was blanketed in flames. The chauffeur was badly burned about the face and hands and was taken to hospital where he will be confined for several weeks.

Central division of the brigade and police officers from Central station were on the spot within a few minutes of the time of the explosion, but the fire was rocketing through the roof even by that time. The firemen attacked the outbreak from every available angle, working close up to the flames, and the police officers rapidly marshalled the garage force and assisted also by firemen, began to run the large number of cars and trucks out of the building.

The result was that the firemen had checked within twenty minutes a fire which threatened to wipe out the garage and spread to adjoining property and only three motors were damaged—only one of these badly. A Garford three and a half ton truck, the one which was being supplied with gasoline when the fire occurred, suffered the greatest damage, a lorry was scorched and another which had not yet been removed from its packing case was slightly burned. The roof and walls at the rear of the garage were damaged considerably.

Shortly before the garage fire the brigade answered a call to Alabaster Road where a spark from an electric wire caused a small blaze. Early yesterday morning the Settlement force assisted the Chapel brigade in subduing an outbreak which destroyed about fifty huts.

No Agreement On Kirin Huaining Loan

(Reuter's Pacific Service) Peking, June 6.—Replying to a protest from the Shanghai Chinese Chamber of Commerce, the Ministry of Communications states that negotiations for the Kirin-Huaining railway loan reached a deadlock in 1919, since when the Chiao-tungpu has not reopened negotiations, and there is therefore no truth in the report that an agreement had been signed.

The Ministry of Commerce has telegraphed to the Manchurian Tientsin, denying the report that the Government had contracted with Japanese interests for a loan to be secured by the forests of Kirin and Heilungkiang.

BUSINESS AND OFFICIAL NOTICES

The Shanghai Life Insurance Company, Limited

Head Office: 10 Canton Road, Shanghai.

NOTICE is hereby given that an Extraordinary General Meeting of the SHANGHAI LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY LIMITED will be held at the office of the Company No. 10 Canton Road Shanghai on the 14th day of June 1921 at 11.45 o'clock in the forenoon, when the subjoined Resolution will be proposed as an extraordinary resolution, namely:—

THAT the Deed of Settlement of the Company be altered as follows:—

(a) That the following Clause shall be substituted for Clause 18, namely:—

"The paidup Capital for the time being, the Reserve Fund and all other moneys in the possession of the Company (except such sums as the Board may consider necessary for the disbursements of the Company) may be invested in the public stocks or funds or government securities of Great Britain, or any Foreign Government, Company or State, or upon Mortgage (on such title as the Board may think proper to accept and either subject or not subject to prior incumbrances) or purchase of lands or buildings of any tenure in China or Hongkong or any other place where the Company may for the time being be carrying on business, or in or upon the stocks, funds, shares, debentures, mortgages or securities of any corporation (incorporated or unincorporated) or public body, municipal, commercial or otherwise, in Great Britain or China or Hongkong or any other place where the Company may for the time being be carrying on business, or may be placed on deposit with any bank or banks from time to time selected by the Board. The Board may from time to time vary or realise any of the said investments."

(b) That the following Clause shall be substituted for Clause 59, namely:—

"The Board may from time to time at their discretion borrow from the Directors, Shareholders or other persons any sum or sums of money for the purposes of the Company."

(c) That the following Clause shall be substituted for Clause 65, namely:—

"Subsequent general meetings shall be held at such time and place as may be prescribed by the Company in general meeting, and if no other time or place is so prescribed a General Meeting shall be held once in every year at such time and place as may be determined by the Board."

(d) That the following Clause shall be substituted for Clause 130, namely:—

"The Board may when they think fit and shall once at least in every five years cause an investigation to be made into the financial condition of the Company with a view to distribution of profits. Every such investigation shall cover the period which has elapsed since the preceding investigation and shall include a valuation of the liabilities of the Company by an Actuary. Upon the completion of every investigation hereunder the Board shall declare what sum, if any, is available for distribution as profits. Such declaration shall be laid before the Company in general meeting and the Company may in general meeting sanction the distribution as profits of the whole or part of the sum so declared to be available for distribution thereof."

Should the Resolution be passed by the required majority, it will be submitted for confirmation as a Special Resolution to a second Extraordinary Meeting which will be subsequently convened.

By Order of the Board, TOM GRIFFIN, Secretary.

official rates here today were unchanged from Saturday with the exception of the Gold Dollar rate which was dropped to 61.

The market opened steady with sellers of Sterling at 3/4 1/4 and of Gold Dollars at 65 1/2. During the day rates hardened and the market closed firm with sellers of Sterling at 3/4 1/4 for near delivery and 3/4 1/4 for forward.

Gold Dollars were also offered at 65 1/2. A few bills were again on the market and speculators were sellers. As a general rule also banks were good sellers. The silver market in London is reported as being steady and it seems likely to re-

Equal Navies and World Peace

(New York Times, May 6)

In quoting the First Lord of the British Admiralty, Baron Lee, upon naval equality between the United States and Great Britain, we inadvertently overlooked his correction of the first published version of his statement, and made him say that the claim to "equality with any other Power," as declared by the Senate, Great Britain had never "expected in the past and never would expect save in connection with the great English-speaking nation which sprang from our loins." The fact is that Baron Lee used the word "accepted" in place of "expected."

The correction really means more than would appear at first sight. Lord Lee, who was the British Military Attaché with General Shafter's army in Cuba, is one of the sincerest and staunchest friends America has in Great Britain. Moreover, the correction gives The Times an opportunity to press home the significance and value of naval equality between the two nations as a gauge of mutual confidence and world peace.

What Baron Lee had in mind in using the word "accepted" was that formerly it had been the policy of Great Britain to maintain in Europe, for the protection of the empire, a navy as strong as the navies of any two Continental Powers. Germany alone challenged the policy, but Great Britain laid down ship after ship to guard against the menace to her security.

When the great war came a powerful fleet had been acquired by Germany, but it was not strong enough to wrest control of the seas from Great Britain, and it could still be said that no combination of two fleets in Europe was as strong in the battle line as the British. With the collapse of Germany, Great Britain abandoned the two-Power standard. Its occasion had gone. Baron Lee saw no necessity of building against the United States. For the future a one-Power standard would be sufficient.

If the United States desired naval equality with Great Britain, as proposed by the Senate, as advocated by Secretary Denby, Great Britain would accept the situation with good grace and with the conviction that equality would not excite suspicion and distrust, but would make for mutual respect and confidence—indeed, for the peace of the world.

"Accept," therefore, had a fullness and appositeness of meaning in Baron Lee's welcome of the American policy not to be found in "expect." Naval equality is practicable, could be arranged without difficulty, would lay the spectre of ruinous competition and silence the jingo.

We see are all "coming out."

WHY HE CAME

The park orator was getting excited. Patriotism oozed from every pore.

"Brother," he shouted, pointing to a dark little foreigner in the crowd, "didn't you come to this glorious country to escape from tyranny and oppression? Didn't you flee to these happy shores to live in freedom, to enjoy the liberties which Britain guarantees to all? Didn't you, brother?"

He paused, and the little foreigner replied:

"No. I was come to this country to sell ready-made and cheap clothing."

"Not necessarily, my dear," replied her husband, without lifting his eyes from the paper.

PRICES COMING DOWN

There are rumors that in some favored spots in this troubled world the H.C.I. is evaporating.

One hears it whispered that prices are coming down; even in Shanghai your butter is a little less, even the bread upon which it lies, and relishes, is a little more.

"There's a little drop in sugar and a little drop in bread, and the cost of living's tumbling at least so it is said."

Still the compradore and butcher's bills we view with grave alarm.

And another little drop wouldn't do us any harm!

General Cadorna's Side Of It

La Guerra Alla Fronte Italiana

—Fino All'Arresto Sulla Linea Della Piave E Del Grappa. In two volumes, 8 vo. With three maps.

Milan: Fratelli Treves.

The great war wrecked several political and military reputations. The subsequent attempts of the victors to rehabilitate them have not always been conducted in good taste—resentment, when coupled with a sense of injustice suffered, often finds expression in the very things of which it complains, public betrayals and personal vindictive. Since Caporetto, General Count Luigi Cadorna, Chief of the General Staff and Commander-in-Chief of the Italian armies in the field until that event, has been on the defensive.

He now explains rather as a duty to the Italian people than to himself. He does so without any disclosure of secret documents or personal animus. Apparently he has not, without reason, been accused of being an aristocrat—in the Greek sense.

But Count Cadorna has many friends who can hardly allow his objectively dispassionate story of "The War on the Italian Front" to go unsupplemented. Already they have begun to offer appendices.

The well-known writer, Tommaso Sillani, repeats in the columns of the Messaggero, five days after the publication of the book, a conversation he had with the Count which is not complimentary to either the diplomacy or the military acumen of Sir William Robertson, then Chief of the British Imperial Staff.

Signor Sillani reports Cadorna as saying to him, on Nov. 23, 1917: "After the Bainsizza offensive, the British and French desired that I should continue the offensive. It was a question not of continuing, but of initiating a new offensive. Hence, I answered that I was short of munitions and reserves. Thereupon Sir William Robertson sent me an almost insolent (quasi insolente) telegram, saying that if I wished to sustain merely a defensive attitude, he begged me (mi pregava) to order the immediate withdrawal of the sixteen batteries which I had only asked for an offensive. I replied immediately and ordered the withdrawal of their batteries. As to the tone of his telegram I gave him to understand that on the Italian sector of the war I alone was responsible before my King and my Government."

Apparently this is only the beginning. Before long we may expect to learn why it was that Lord Derby, now British Ambassador at Paris, suddenly threw up the War Portfolio at about the same time when he learned that dispatches sent him by Cadorna on the eve of the Caporetto disaster, reminding him of his engagements made months before, had not been delivered until after the Germans had annihilated the Second Italian Army.

The first ninety pages of the book are devoted to the political and military situation in Italy previous to her entering the war. The Government inspired by the King and the people, and led by Salandra and Sonnino, were striving to free the country from the non-interventionist policy of Giolitti and his followers, who were vitally interested in the economic and financial grip that Germany had on the Peninsula.

In the Villa Malta sat Prince von Bulow ready to sacrifice the territorial integrity of the Dual Monarchy in order to retain that grip and keep Italy out of the war. Perhaps it was only the memory of the Lusitania and the Belgian atrocities which made von Bulow so thoroughly unpopular and caused him to fail.

At any rate, Italy was utterly unprepared for war. The influence of the non-interventionists, and what Cadorna stigmatizes as the "idol of the Treasury," had at least prevented preparedness. Italy utterly lacked the field equipment for an offensive; of mobile mid-calibre and large calibre guns, she had none.

Since the days of Marius in the first century B. C. all her military plans had been defensive. Only Napoleon, a foreigner, had conceived for her offensive operations and by them had reached Klagenfurt and even Vienna.

All plans had to be changed from the defensive to the offensive. By the aid of his resourceful lieutenant, General Porro, Cadorna changed them. His equipment, however, did not permit him to devise an offensive in both the Trentino and against the Isonzo.

Cadorna had expected to take the Austrians by surprise. The rupture of the Triple Alliance on May 4 should have been simultaneous with a declaration of war. But Italy did not declare war until May 23. By the terms of the Treaty of London, signed April 26, she was "obliged to enter the war before May 26. Considering the political situation, it is no exaggeration to say that had Italy attempted to enter the war before she actually did enter it, she would not have come in at all. The Salandra Government would have been repudiated by the Chamber, and Giolitti, back in office, would have accepted Vienna's maximum concessions conveyed by Prince von Bulow. As it was, the resignation of Salandra on May 13 inspired a mighty demonstration which denounced it. And Salandra, borne back, figuratively, on the shoulders of the Romans, received a carte blanche for war from a chastened and repentant Chamber six days later.

It was quite natural that in these circumstances the Austrians could not be surprised. It was quite natural, too, that serious doubt should arise in London and Paris as to whether Italy would really keep the engagements entered into at London, on April 26. Hence it is not surprising that the interested chancelleries, as well as pro-ally officials in Rome, should have attempted to inform the Italian people how far they, through the Salandra Government, were committed to a war policy.

Cadorna blames France for publishing the date by which, in accordance with the agreement at London, Italy would be obliged to enter the war or turn the treaty into another "scrap of paper." But it was all along a secret of Poichinelle. Since May 4, Vienna had known that war was inevitable, unless, indeed, von Bulow and Giolitti could perform a miracle. Thus Austria needed no information, but the Italian people and those sympathetic abroad did need it.

Only four days after the signing of the London pact The New York Times contained a Rome dispatch, the heading of which read: "Italy and Allies Now in Agreement—Concerted Attack to be Made on Central Empires if She Enters the War—To Become Member of the Quadruple Entente," etc. At the dedication of the Garibaldi monument at Quarto on May 5, Gabriele d'Annunzio was allowed to announce the rupture of the Triple Alliance Treaty. And there was also that little town, Chiasso, on the Swiss frontier, by which pro-ally officials simultaneously contrived to let their friends abroad know the truth or falseness of the "official" dispatches emanating from Rome. Taken simply as an Italian word, chiasso means a vehement denial. In these circumstances it would appear that Cadorna is unjust and unreasonable in his charge against France.

After the first plunge in the direction of the Isonzo, the remaining part of 1915 was spent in sealing up the passes from the Trentino, and the Winter of 1915-16 in reorganising the army in order that it might take the path toward Vienna which Napoleon had blazed over a century before. But the Austrians caused this to be postponed for another year.

The first signs of a projected enemy offensive became obvious in March. In the Trentino the Austrians began massing an army, while Cadorna continued his preparations on the Isonzo front. By May the Austrians had 200 battalions in line in the Trentino with 2,000 guns, while the static Italian Army consisted of 182 battalions and 851 guns. Still Cadorna continued to hasten his work on the other front, until the storm broke on May 14.

Austria drove into the Region del Veneto and reached Asiago on the Sella Comuni, thereby threatening the lines of communication with the Isonzo front on the southeast and Italy's great metallurgical center on the south.

It was nothing more than a threat, however. Although it proceeded further than Cadorna believed it would, it could have been nothing more. In June the Austrian invasion was flanked from the Val Sugana in the northeast and from the Astico in the southwest and rolled back with the loss of nearly 100,000 men and half of its artillery.

Still, it suspended the Italian plans on the other front, causing Cadorna to mass a great army along the edge of the Plateau of Asiago, which, however, it was unnecessary to employ.

Cadorna was ill-served by his intelligence; nevertheless, his reasoning, both tactical and logical, showing that the Austrian offensive, if it came, would be abortive, was sound. It is now known that Hindenburg strongly opposed the sally. Cadorna knew, and he presumed the Austrians knew, that Brusiloff was about to begin his great offensive on the Russian front. His strategic position, too, was impregnable. Still, lacking correct knowledge of the enemy's strength and being utterly unable to fathom the idiosyncrasies of the Hapsburg military mind—just as Hindenburg was—his plans for a great offensive over the Isonzo were, for the time, rendered naught.

In January, 1917, there was an Interallied Conference at Rome. According to Cadorna there was only one man there who understood the enormous importance of the Italian front—enormous and decisive—Lloyd George. "Un solo uomo aveva compreso l'importanza enorme del nostro fronte—enorme e decisiva—Lloyd George." The British Prime Minister, later seconded by the British Minister of War, was for sending to Italy from 300 to 400 guns of all calibers, and several Anglo-French divisions until a decision had been reached. Later at Paris Cadorna became convinced, after a conversation with General Nivelle, that he could hope for no such support, and that, on the other hand, the British and French General Staffs believed that a decision would be reached by the co-ordinated plan they were then formulating for an offensive in Flanders and Champagne.

The sudden withdrawal of the Germans in March disarranged that plan, although Nivelle, at terrible cost, tried to retrieve it in April. Cadorna could appreciate Nivelle's position, for he himself was hampered by politicians at home.

With the miscarriage of their plans on the western front, the Allied General Staffs encouraged Cadorna to proceed. Sixteen batteries of heavy English guns were sent him. So in August Cadorna, with promises of more help, began the great offensive across the Isonzo. He almost severed the Austrian line in the Chiapovano Valley, secured the slopes of Monte Nero, from Plezzo to Tolmino, and crashed over the plateau of Bainsizza Santo Spirito on a ten-mile front with a penetration of seven and a half; in the south only the volcanic pile of Hermada, already under fire of the British heavy mobile guns, blocked the way across the Carso to Trieste. He was thirty-five miles from Liabach, and before him, with the Chiapovano Valley once crossed, lay the road traversed by Napoleon.

The maneuver cheered all the allied armies and their people. But military men knew it was still indecisive, and could only be made decisive with heavy guns. But this was not the worst. The twelve-and-a-half-mile sector at Monte Nero was exposed to attack from Plezzo and Tolmino, where the Italians had been prevented from crossing the Isonzo by the bridgehead formed by Monte Santa Maria and Monte Santa Lucia, still held by the enemy on the western bank. The positions on the Bainsizza were exposed from the Idrio on the north, and from Monte San Gabriele and Monte San Daniel on the south.

Then came Caporetto. Up to the last minute the allied chiefs would not believe that there was to be a monstrous Teutonic blow leveled at the Isonzo front. They would not credit the news told them of the arrival of forty German divisions, of the arrival of von Below. And because Cadorna believed these things and ordered the armies to take the defensive, they recalled the ninety-nine Anglo-French guns, which had been in Italy since Spring, and countermanded the dispatch of 103 French guns already on their way. But Cadorna's order for a defensive was not obeyed. General Cappello, the hero of Gorizia and the Bainsizza, still sought new laurels for the Second Army, and thereby brought about its annihilation.

Cadorna frankly expresses his doubt as to whether the enemy's offensive would be limited to the exposed positions in the Plezzo-Molmino zone or extend to the sea. He was not left long in doubt. From the Plezzo von Below entered the valley of the Natizone; behind the bridgehead south of Tolmino he crossed the Isonzo and entered the valley of the Jurio, enveloping the Plezzo-Tolmino zone and exposing the rear of the Second Army on the Bainsizza and that of the Third Army on the Carso. The Third, under the Duke of Aosta, escaped from Plezzo and Tolmino, where

OLD COMMANDERS' YARNS

(Admiral Sir Percy Scott)

When commanding H.M.S. Seylla 1899, H.M.S. Terrible 1901, and H.M.S. Good Hope 1908, this great Gunnery expert put his ship top of the Navy for Shooting, by means of his training and his Director system of Firing.

The late Lord Fisher writes of him—"He hits the target!"—"He also was maliciously maligned."

Admiral Scott, too efficient to be beloved in some quarters, came into conflict with a certain Admiral who even went the length of writing a book reflecting upon the former's character and ability as an officer.

This is what the Gunnery expert fired in reply:—

"He was a most popular officer.

In the Navy he knew he was not a sailor, but thought that he was a politician; in the House of Commons, I have been told, they knew he was not a politician, but thought he was a sailor."

After such "Director firing" we direct attention to:—

From the very beginning Cadorna believed the same thing, but constantly argued for, at least, a Council of Allied Army Chiefs and for co-operation between the western and the Italian fronts. There would have been no Caporetto, he dimly observes, "if there had existed then the Interallied Military Council which had its birth a month and a half later, but only as a consequence of the sad experience of Caporetto."

University Of Nanking News Notes

Nanking, June 3.—Dr. Edward Dodd, Presbyterian Missionary to Persia, and who is a cousin of Mr. W. M. Speers, Jr., of Nanking University, visited the university and addressed the student body last week. Dr. Dodd had many thrilling experiences during the great war. Some of these experiences were related in the article "Can such things be?" which was published in the Atlantic Monthly of September, 1919.

It has been announced that some twenty men in the Senior College of Agriculture will do practical farm work during the summer vacation, outside Jin-Chiah Gate. Each man will take charge of 10 to 15 mow. Prof. J. B. Griffing being the director.

Mr. P. L. Gillett, secretary of the Nanking Y. M. C. A., who has recently returned from famine relief in Honan, gave a very interesting lecture last Tuesday. In connection to it Mr. Gillett showed to the collegians some pre-historic specimens from Honan.

The school year is nearing its close. The senior college literary clubs are planning to have a union reception on June 10. Representatives from the clubs have been elected and interesting programs are in preparation.

The faculty of the University next fall will be strengthened by the return from furlough of Dr. H. C. Hamilton, of the Department of Philosophy; Dean J. H. Reiser, of the College of Forestry and Agriculture; Mr. Alex. Small, the University engineer and Mr. Chen Cheng-chang, of the Chinese Department.

ment, Mr. Paul A. Northrop, M. S. from Cornell who has taught physics at Cornell for two years will join the staff of the University and teach physics next fall.

Dr. Charles S. Gibbs, a bacteriologist from Yale University, America, will teach in the University next term. Dr. Gibbs is a member of the Baptist Mission in America.

Dr. Thomas Holgate, dean of the College of Arts at Northwestern University for many years, who is said to be the "best college dean in America," and who has been acting President of the Northwestern for some time will spend his sabbatical year in Nanking University and will teach astronomy and mathematics. Miss Eleanor Holgate, daughter of Dr. Holgate, who has been connected with the Y. W. C. A. in America, will teach English in University Middle School next term.

The Carnegie Institute of Washington, D. C. has made the University of Nanking Library a depository library for its publications which include works on literature, history, economics and many branches of science. The library has received during May 342 volumes of these publications, which make one of the most valuable gifts the library has recently received. The publications are available for general use.

The general program of the Commencement week will be as follows:

Model School Class Day at Kanhoyen, June 17, 10 a.m.
Middle School Class Day at Kanhoyen, June 17, 3:00 p.m.
Trees Planting ceremony, June 18, 9:00 a.m.
Examination Hall Restoration, College campus, June 18, 9:00 a.m.
Address at the Sage Chapel June 18, 9:45 a.m.

College Class Day Exercises at Sage Chapel, June 18, 2:00 p.m.
Alumni Reunion at College Campus, June 18, 6:00 p.m.
Baccalaureate Services at Sage Chapel, June 19, 10:00 a.m.

Commencement Exercises at Sage Chapel, June 20, 10:00 a.m.
Alumni Luncheon at Kuleo, June 20, 1:00 a.m.

It is expected that Dr. C. T. Wang will give the Commencement speech on June Twentieth.

The lengthy program of the College Class Day to be held on June 20, will be as follows:

Chairman, Prof. K. S. So; Music, University Glee Club; Welcome Address (Chinese), Wang Hai-yun; Welcome Address (English), Chen Kwel-chi; Song, Methodist Girls' School; Class Song, Members of the Class; Class History, Hwang Ren-chieh; Song, Christian Girls' School; Chinese oration, Wei Wen-han; Song, Advent Christian Girls' School; English Oration, Chu Fong-chang; Farewell Address (Chinese), Pang Hsin; Song, University Quartet; Explanation of the Flag, Liu Ching-fu; Farewell Address (English), Huang Chang-hsu; Music, University Band.

ed; the Second, under Cappello, did not.

To prevent being cut off, the armies in the north mountains were obliged to retreat, and when the Fourth Army was out of the

Val Sugana, von Below repeated

the Austrian drive upon the Asiago of May, 1916, but this time without any danger of being flanked. Von Below's offensive was launched on Oct. 24, and as

"from hour to hour, all precipitated, and the situation grew always more tragic," and, having in vain tried to stop the enemy's rush by a line pivoting on Monte

Maggiore, on the 27th, Cadorna gave the order for a general retreat on the Tagliamento River, not with the hope of remaining there, but only to pause until the defenses of the Piave could be prepared. Beyond the Piave he would not retire—"da qui non si passa!"

And so in the month that followed allied reinforcement arrived, but they had orders to dig in on the Adige, to which their chiefs believed the Italians must ultimately retire, and so sur-sundered Venice, the Pearl of the Adriatic. But the Italians did not retire to the Adige, they clung to the Piave and so saved their Venice. On that line the Anglo-French detachments ultimately joined them, making possible Vittorio Veneto of the following year, which proved, although under another commander, Cadorna's faith in the Italian front as a means to decisive victory. It will be remembered that the Austrians capitulated on Nov. 4, and the Germans not until a week later. The Austrian armies had been shattered beyond all recovery and scattered to the four winds. The German armies in formations proceeded to evacuate Belgium and France in an orderly manner. Yes, Vittorio Veneto confirmed Cadorna's theory as to the decisive character of the Italian front. But that was not the only Napoleonic precept he had faith in. When Napoleon was fighting both Germany and Austria, he left Moreau on the Rhine; he himself fought in Veneto; Carnot was the connecting link, thus making, under one commander, one army and one battlefield, and being able to move on the inside of an arc while the enemy was forced to move on the outside.
